I Learn America

Directors Jean-Michel Dissard and Gitte Peng follow recently arrived young immigrants during a year at an American high school. These young people struggle not only with the challenges of being teenagers but also with the fear of deportation, learning English and homesickness.

The film shows how hard it is to learn a new culture and raises questions about how we can help ease the path of immigrants in our country and community.

PG County Peace & Justice Coalition plans this month's film for Greenbelt's Peace Month. Contact: Donna.Hoffmeister@verizon.net

Produced by Beaverdam Creek Watershed Watch Group, Green Vegan Networking, and Prince George's County Peace and Justice Coalition.
